

Our Accomplishments through various initiatives:

- More than 760 health workers have their clinical skills improved on managing HIV and AIDS clients including preventing HIV transmission to the child from a pregnant mother.
- Provision of maternal health services has been strengthened by capacitating 36 health workers with training on Comprehensive Emergency Obstetric Care, placement of equipment's and constructed nine operating theatres at the rural health centres. These have allowed performance of emergency surgical operations, whenever required to save lives of pregnant mothers with complications and their new-borns.
- To mitigate HRH crisis, BMAF has enhanced production, planning, recruitment and retention strategies. BMAF hired more than 1,100 health workers that were deployed to work in rural areas, and amongst them 90 percent were retained within the public service employment systems after ending their contracts with BMAF.
- In a combined effort, the BMAF employed staff and existing public health workers have assured clients to receive quality health service for 12 hours and 5 days in a week. Notable evidence is the 5 fold increase in enrolment of HIV clients on Care and Treatment clinics within districts that have been supported by the Foundation.
- To minimize the national health workers shortage, as from 2012, BMAF in collaboration with the Ministry of Health and Social Welfare provided scholarship to at least 1,000 Tanzanian students studying allied health courses in different health training institutions countrywide. On completing the course the graduates are deployed to work in rural health care settings.
- In the course of enhancing their attraction, motivation and retention to work in these areas, the Foundation constructed 310 standard staff houses in 31 District Councils, whereby 140 have been completed and handed over to the respective authorities, and are currently occupied by health staffs. The houses are built in the health facility premises and through this way community members have now been accessing 24 hours health services within closer proximities.
- At least 1,400 health managers from the Local Government Authorities have been trained, coached and mentored on effective planning and management of health workers. BMAF's work has influenced development and amendments of various policies, guidelines and practices that have fostered better management of Human Resource for Health and health service delivery. For instance, reviews of the 1999 Staffing norms for the Health sector, development of the National Public Pay Policy of 2012 and the recent national-led programme of the "Big Result Now" for the Health Sector.
